

< International Internship Programme >

Li Ze Ling | NTU |
Bachelor of Chemical and Biomedical Engineering

During my IA Program in my Y4S1, I was extremely excited to be chosen for the International Internship Program (IIP) offered by SOXAL. I got the chance to spend 3 months interning at Air Liquide Far Eastern Ptd Ltd (ALFE) in Taipei, Taiwan as a Market Analyst. I was given the task of analyzing market information in the electronics division of the whole of Taiwan and presented my results to the upper management as a form of reference for future opportunities.

I had no work experience prior to my internship; hence I am extremely grateful to be given the chance to have a taste of what it was like working in 2 completely different fields – being a market analyst in ALFE and being attached to an operations department back in SOXAL. These two completely different environments had helped me gain a better understanding of the responsibilities of both professions and will definitely help me in deciding the career that I want to pursue after graduation.

My time in Taiwan was very much enjoyable due to the cohesive environment which my colleagues and I share. All in all, this internship program has certainly enabled me to experience what it was like to work in a foreign country. Furthermore, it provided me with an insight to the different opportunities available in SOXAL. It was definitely an enriching experience that I would never forget.